THE ARTS ARE ALIVE IN
Wynwood
Creativity and culinary
Gems in Scandinavia
Everything Zen
what’s inside // SECTIONS

RUNWAY: Step into Miami's top shoe boutiques

BITES: Enjoy some of the best restaurants in Miami at a fraction of the cost, thanks to Miami Spice

While at MIA: Sip rare wines and liquors while waiting for your flight at MIA

GETAWAYS: These Nordic cities shine bright with creativity and culinary prowess

THE LAYOVER: Spend eight hours in Wynwood

PLAY: These zen workouts will help align your mind, body and soul

FAMILY: Chill out with these fun ways to beat the heat

ON LOCATION: MIA honors the military with honor flights, a Wall of Honor and a Hospitality Lounge

AIRPORT INFORMATION
View:
Terminal Maps
MIA Shops Listings
MIA Restaurants Listings
Current Airlines
Spend eight hours in Wynwood, Miami’s arts district.

THE ARTS ARE ALIVE!

By Daniel Guzman
From the walls to the sidewalks and street signs, it seems like every inch of space in Wynwood is covered in art. That's because over the last decade the area has become the hotbed of artistic activity in the city. The area is also home to some of the best restaurants, bars, breweries and retail stores, so there's more to Wynwood than just paint on canvas.

Rise and Shine: Before you start your tour of the arts district, start with a caffeine boost at Panther Coffee, where they roast their beans right on the premises. The cold brew ($3.50 to $4.50) packs a punch if you are feeling extra sluggish. Then head two blocks north to Wynwood Walls, where the late Tony Goldman and his family have created an outdoor park filled with murals by the likes of Shepard Fairey, Retna, Os Gemeos, Kenny Scharf and more.

Do Some Shopping: On the main drag of N.W. Second Avenue, retail stores have popped up. Familiar yet boutique brands like Warby Parker, Shinola, Marie Saint Pierre, Aesop and Marine Layer have all opened outposts.